"Teachers need to be taught how to question Whiteness and White supremacy, how to check and deal with their White emotions of guilt and anger, and how these all impact their classrooms. Only after unpacking and interrogating Whiteness, White teachers - and, really, all teachers - must unpack how Whiteness functions in their lives; then they can stand in solidarity with their students' communities for social change." p. 75

Whiteness is so slick. Less than 48 hours ago, thousands of white people stormed the Capitol, vandalized the offices, terrified members of Congress and their staff and were escorted back out like they were on a school field trip. Today, no one has mentioned race. #Privilege
