FINAL DETERMINATION

The Indiana Board of Tax Review (“Board”), having reviewed the facts and evidence, and having considered the issues, now finds and concludes the following:

INTRODUCTION

1. Elkhart Land Development, LLC (“ELD”) applied for an educational exemption for real and personal property it leases to GK Bristol Childcare Corp. d/b/a Growing Kids Learning Center (“GK”) for use as a for-profit early childhood educational facility. Indiana Code § 6-1.1-10-46 requires that for-profit early childhood educational facilities must be owned by the educational provider to qualify for an exemption. It further requires the educational provider to predominantly occupy and use the property for providing early childhood education services to children who are at least four (4) but less than six (6) years of age. Because ELD and GK are separate and distinct legal entities and only 41% of GK's total enrollment are children between 4 and 5 years of age, the property does not qualify for an exemption.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

2. On April 3, 2019, ELD applied for an educational exemption for the 2019 assessment year for real and personal property located at 825 W. Bristol Street in Elkhart.<sup>1</sup> On July 31, 2019, the Elkhart County Property Tax Assessment Board of Appeals ("PTABOA") issued a Form 120 determination finding the real property to be 100% taxable. However, the PTABOA's determination failed to address the personal property. On August 30, 2019, ELD timely filed a Form 132 petition challenging the denial of the educational exemption as to the real property and GK filed a concurrent Form 132 petition challenging the denial of the educational exemption as to the personal property.<sup>2</sup>
3. On June 16, 2021, our designated Administrative Law Judge, David Smith ("ALJ"), held a telephonic hearing on both petitions. Neither he nor the Board inspected the subject property.
4. ELD and GK's Chief Financial Officer Sandy Harvey, GK's Area Director Beth Lovelady, and Elkhart County Assessor Cathy Searcy testified under oath.
5. ELD and GK submitted the following exhibits:

Petitioner Ex. 1:	ELD's Form 136 exemption application and attachments (Confidential)
Petitioner Ex. 2:	ELD's Form 132 petition and attachments
Petitioner Ex. 3:	GK's Form 132 petition and Notice of Appearance

<sup>1</sup> On its exemption application, ELD included a notation indicating that the property was leased to GK.

<sup>2</sup> GK claimed it filed its appeal directly with us because the PTABOA failed to issue a determination within 180 days of the filing of ELD's Form 136 exemption application. See Ind. Code § 6-1.1-11-7(d) (allowing taxpayers to appeal to the Board if the county board fails to approve or disapprove an exemption application within 180 days of the date the exemption application was filed). Although it had only been approximately 149 days since ELD applied for the exemption, we note that the Assessor never challenged the timeliness of GK's Form 132 petition and the PTABOA's 180 days had long since run by the date of our hearing.

- Respondent Ex. R-10: GK's enrollment as of January 1, 2020
- Respondent Ex. R-11: Indiana Code §§ 6-1.1-10-16(p) and 6-1.1-10-46
- Respondent Ex. R-12: GK's Form 132 and Notice of Appearance

7. The record also includes the following: (1) all pleadings, briefs and documents filed in these appeals, including the parties' post-hearing briefs; (2) all orders and notices issued by the Board or our ALJ; and (3) an audio recording of the hearing.

FINDINGS OF FACT

8. ELD is a real estate holding company formed by Mike and Beth Garatoni for the purpose of constructing the facility located at 825 W. Bristol Street. It owns both the real and personal property at issue in this appeal. ELD has no employees, and it does not provide any childcare or educational services. ELD leases the real and personal property to GK, who uses it as a for-profit early childhood educational facility serving children ranging in age from infant to 7 years old. GK is the sole occupant and user of the real property and no other activities of any kind occur on the property. Lovelady and Harvey testimony; Pet'r Exs. 1, 2, 5, 7, 10; Resp't Exs. R-2, R-3, R-9, R-10.

9. GK's facility is one of nine childcare and early development centers in northern Indiana that are owned by Mike and Beth Garatoni. GK was certified as a Level 4 provider under Indiana's Paths to Quality certification program as of January 1, 2019. GK has established curriculums for all age groups which are reflected in the daily lesson plans and activity schedules. Each of the classrooms is separately furnished and supplied, and each has two bathrooms and outside egress. There are centers for math, arts, science, nutrition, sensory activities, and a manipulative center in each classroom. As of January 1, 2019, 41% of the children enrolled at GK were between the ages of 4 and 5. Lovelady and Harvey testimony; Pet'r Exs. 6, 7, 8, 9, 15.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

10. Although tangible property in Indiana is generally taxable, the legislature has exercised its constitutional power to exempt certain types of property. Hamilton County Property Tax Assessment Bd. of Appeals v. Oaken Bucket Partners, LLC, 938 N.E.2d 654, 657 (Ind. 2010). A taxpayer has the burden of proving it is entitled to exemption. Id. Because exemption statutes release properties from bearing their fair share of the cost of government and disturb the equality and distribution of the common burden of government, they are strictly construed against the taxpayer. Indianapolis Osteopathic Hospital, Inc. v. Dep't of Local Gov't Fin., 818 N.E.2d 1009, 1014 (Ind. Tax Ct. 2014).
11. All or part of a building that is owned, occupied, and predominantly used for educational, literary, scientific, religious, or charitable purposes is exempt from taxation. See I.C. § 6-1.1-10-16(a). That exemption extends to the land on which the building sits and to personal property that is owned and used in such a manner that it would qualify for exemption if it were a building. I.C. § 6-1.1-10-16(c) and (e). However, Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46 sets strict limitations on when a property used to provide for-profit early childhood educational services, such as the subject property, can receive an exemption. It provides, in relevant part:

- (a) Tangible property owned, occupied, or used by a for-profit provider of early childhood education services to children who are at least four (4) but less than six (6) years of age is exempt from property taxation under section 16 of this chapter only if all of the following requirements are satisfied:
  - (1) The primary purpose of the provider is educational.
  - (2) The provider is the property owner and the provider also predominately occupies and uses the tangible property for providing early childhood education services to children who are at least four (4) but less than six (6) years of age...

Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46(a).

12. Here, ELD owns both the real and personal property, but it admittedly has no role in providing childcare or education at the facility. It instead leases the property to GK, who uses it to provide childcare and early childhood education services to children ranging in age from infant to 7 years old. Because ELD is the owner but not the provider of educational services, the property does not satisfy Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46(a)(2), which requires that the provider of the educational services also be the property owner.
13. ELD and GK ask us to look past this statutory requirement, arguing that they should nevertheless be entitled to an exemption because both entities share common ownership. But the requirement that the owner and provider be one and the same is a substantive requirement of the statute, not a mere procedural hurdle. For us to hold otherwise would be to ignore the clear intent of the legislature. Thus, we cannot simply disregard the fact that ELD and GK are two separate legal entities. See St. Mary's Building Corporation v. Redman, 135 N.E. 3d 681 (Ind. Tax Ct. 2019) (explaining that a basic principle of the U.S. legal system recognizes that corporate entities are separate legal personalities). Furthermore, the cases they cite in support of their argument that two related entities can combine to satisfy the statutory exemption requirements, including Johnson County

Property Tax Assessment Board of Appeals v. KC Propco, LLC 28 N.E. 3d 370 (Ind. Tax Ct. 2015), all predate the creation of Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46 and thus do not control.

14. Even if ELD and GK prevailed on their common ownership argument, we would still find that the property does not qualify for an exemption. In addition to requiring the educational provider to be the property owner, Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46(a)(2) also requires the provider to predominately occupy and use the property for providing early childhood education services to children who are at least four (4) but less than six (6) years of age. Because only 41% of GK's total enrollment are children between 4 and 5 years of age, we conclude that GK does not satisfy the statute's predominate use requirement.

15. In the alternative, ELD argues that the requirements of Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46 do not apply to it because they are "relevant only to a "provider" of services seeking an exemption" and thus owners who are not providers can seek an exemption under the general exemption statute without meeting the requirements of Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46. But the language of the statute clearly applies to any property used for for-profit educational services, regardless of whether the owner or the provider is seeking the exemption. In addition, such an interpretation would render the requirement that the educational provider be the property owner meaningless. For-profit early childhood education centers must meet the requirements of Ind. Code § 6-1.1-10-46 to receive an exemption.

CONCLUSION

In accordance with the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, we find the subject property to be 100% taxable.
