

ERIC J. HOLCOMB, Governor
GREGORY L. WILSON, SR., Executive Director

The Indiana Civil Rights Commission is committed to providing all of its citizen's equal opportunity for education, employment, access to public accommodations, and fair housing. Denying these rights to anyone because of race, religion, color, sex, disability, familial status, national origin, or ancestry is contrary to the principles of freedom and fairness we hold as core values. The ICRC, through the investigation and litigation of complaints, seeks to ensure that Indiana civil rights laws are enforced to protect every individual who lives in or visits our great state.

In partnership with the Indiana Cultural Commissions, which include the Indiana Commission for Hispanic and Latino Affairs, the Indiana Commission for Women, the Indiana Commission for the Social Status of Black Males, and the Indiana Native American and Indiana Affairs Commission, the Indiana Civil Rights Commission further advances the State's public policy of equal rights by providing robust education on the Indiana Civil Rights Law and related resources throughout the State.

In these difficult and uncertain times, the Commission seeks solutions by remaining committed to this mission, so that every person and community is assured of equity, opportunity, and justice.
