Madison County Prosecutor Elected to National Association

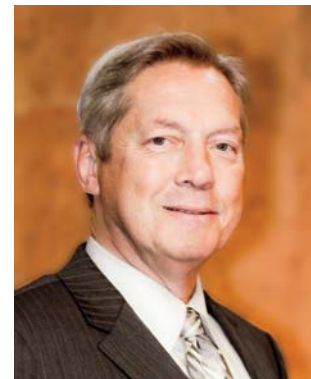

Rodney Cummings joins National District Attorneys Association Board

(INDIANAPOLIS – September 25, 2018) Madison County Prosecutor Rodney Cummings was recently elected as Indiana’s representative on the National District Attorneys Association’s Board by the Association of Indiana Prosecuting Attorneys, Inc. Board of Directors.

Cummings won the election during the Board’s September 21 meeting. His four-year term will start on January 1, 2019.

“I am honored and humbled that my fellow prosecutors would select me to represent them on the NDAA Board of Directors,” Cummings said.

The NDAA board meets three times a year and is primarily tasked with shaping crime policy on a national level. NDAA members regularly meet with the Department of Justice and members of Congress to help pass laws aiding public safety. The organization also works at the state government level and holds regular training opportunities for prosecutors and staff members.

Cummings said he hopes to encourage NDAA to have more of a presence at national legislative conferences.

“Much of the real legislation that effects state prosecutors is generated at these conferences and currently NDAA has no voice,” Cummings said.

Cummings serves as the elected prosecutor of Madison County, Indiana and is an active Association board member.
