In the news

Rash, "Still Missing: Amelia Earhart" by Susan Ware, "The Time Machine" by H.G. Wells, "The Yellow Birds" by Kevin Powers and many more.

Those interested in a particular kit or title should email Novel Conversations. Please include a name, where the kit will shipped via InfoExpress - or note if it will be picked up at Indiana Humanities - and how many of the available copies are being requesting. Requests will be first come, first serve, and program staff will update if a selected kit or title has already been claimed. Please reach out to the Novel Conversations staff at the above email for a complete list of available books and kits and for the number of each book currently available.

Novel Conversations is a free statewide lending library. Indiana Humanities lends more than 900 titles, primarily fiction and biography, to reading and discussion groups across Indiana, free of charge. Indiana Humanities also has books available in several other genres, including nonfiction, mysteries, plays, poetry and young adult. Click here to learn more.

Carnegie-Whitney Grant available from ALA

Submissions for the Carnegie-Whitney Grant are now being accepted. The Carnegie-Whitney Grant provides an award that is based on a special fund first established by Andrew Carnegie in 1902. The fund was subsequently enhanced by a merger with a fund established by James Lyman Whitney in 1910. The Publishing Committee, a standing committee of the American Library Association, administers the grant.

The Carnegie-Whitney Grant provides grants for the preparation of popular or scholarly reading lists, bibliographies, indexes and other guides to library resources that will

Richard Lieber, born in 1869, has been called the "father" of the Indiana State Park system. Lieber saw the value of preserving land for recreation and relaxation, as well as for the conservation of land and wildlife. He believed that setting aside parcels of land as nature preserves would enable both a person alive today, and their great-grandchild years in the future, to have the same outdoor experience. These nature preserves would be a constant and a solace for young and old alike.

Part of the land dedicated as Richard Lieber State Park was formerly known as the Cagles Mill Development. Lieber State Park lies in Putnam and Owen Counties, about halfway between Indianapolis and Terre Haute. Cagles Mill Lake is a manufactured reservoir and is part of a system of flood-control and water usage reservoir projects in the Ohio Valley. It was the first such reservoir to be built in Indiana. In addition, the park is home to Cataract Falls, a natural waterfall. The land became an Indiana State Park in 1952 and was dedicated to Richard Lieber in the ceremony for which this program was printed, held on July 12, 1958.

be useful to users of all types of libraries in the United States.

The grants - up to $5,000 awarded annually - are intended to cover preparation costs appropriate to the development of a useful product, including the cost of research. The grants do not cover the costs of final printing or online distribution of the product. Grants are awarded to individuals; local, regional or state libraries; associations or organizations, including units, affiliates and committees of the American Library Association; or programs of information and library studies or library science.

The projects must be focused on American libraries; must demonstrate how the project would stimulate the use of library resources; must have the potential appeal and usefulness to a broad audience; must be intended for national distribution; must meet a need for publication; must be completed within two years; and must be new or in process.

Click here to view proposal requirements. Click here to download the application cover sheet. Click here to view the responsibilities of the grant recipients. Deadline for submission of the proposal is Nov. 4. The number and the amount of the grants are at the discretion of the Publishing Committee and vary from year to year.

Please email the application cover sheet and proposal electronically to Mary Jo Bolduc of the American Library Association in one pdf attachment. Incomplete applications will not be accepted.

Registration is now open for the Back in Circulation Again conference, which will take place in person in Madison, Wis. on Oct 3-4.

Back in Circulation Again, presented by the University of Wisconsin-Madison iSchool, is a community of energetic practitioners seeking to serve their communities in the best way possible. From the big picture to everyday procedures, participants will attend sessions that refresh their perspective and lead to meaningful improvements.

This year's keynote speaker is Deborah Biddle. Biddle will explore principles for becoming intentional leaders, including focus, discipline, vision, direction, goals and objectives. Biddle leads the diversity, equity and inclusion consulting, assessment, training, coaching and practitioner certification firm, The People Company LLC.

Click here to read more about the conference and to read more about the keynote address. Click here to register. The conference registration fee is $300.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison iSchool is on the Indiana State Library's approved training providers list.
