The Office of the Chief Economist & Tax Analysis Hari Razafindramanana released the monthly revenue report for state tax collections for the month of April 2024.

Note to readers: The monthly revenue estimates are based on the December 19, 2023 revenue forecast which considers revenue developments and the economic outlook presented on that date. This includes previously discussed changes in tax deadlines, payment timing, as well as assumptions related to federal and state policy actions leading up to the release of the forecast.

Information on the latest forecast is available at <https://www.in.gov/sba/2837.htm>.

Fiscal Year 2024 began on July 1, 2023 and ends June 30, 2024.

Results

- General Fund revenues for April totaled $2,713.4 million, which is $392.8 million (12.6%) below the estimate based on the December 19, 2023 revenue forecast and $145.7 million (5.1%) below revenue in April 2023.

As previously mentioned, it was estimated that potentially $400 million of the fiscal year-to-date collections through March 2024 was attributable to unusual payment timing as taxpayers adjust to recent tax law changes (2023 legislative session).

April collections from income taxes were $400.0 million below monthly estimate and fiscal year-to-date collections are now $8.8 million (0.1%) below the December 2023 revenue forecast.

Differences relative to monthly estimates and prior year actuals will be influenced by various factors including payment timing, federal policy actions, and changes to law.

- Sales tax collections totaled $875.3 million for April, which is $14.0 million (1.6%) below the monthly estimate but $0.5 million (0.1%) above revenue in April 2023.

Comparisons relative to prior year actuals will be impacted by HEA 1001-2023 which removed the allocation of gasoline use tax collections to the General Fund, beginning in FY 2024.

Monthly collections attributable to sales tax (excluding gasoline use tax) were $14.0 million below the monthly estimate but $10.8 million (1.2%) above the prior year actuals. The April performance of 1.2% year-over-year growth, which mostly reflects March economic activity, compares to year-over-year growth of 1.1%, -3.1%, and -0.4%, over the three preceding months.

Year-over-year differences and fluctuations from month-to-month are expected as outlined by the evolving economic, seasonal, and policy dynamics presented in the December 2023 revenue forecast.

Beginning in FY 2024, gasoline use tax is no longer allocated to the General Fund. As a result, gasoline use tax monthly collections came in $10.3 million (100.0%) below prior year actuals.

- Individual income tax collections totaled $1,470.7 million for April, which is $302.0 million (17.0%) below the monthly estimate and $39.6 million (2.6%) below revenue in April 2023.

As previously mentioned, it was estimated that potentially $400 million of the fiscal year-to-date collections through March 2024 was attributable to unusual payment timing as taxpayers adjust to recent tax law changes (2023 legislative session).

The April performance is to be interpreted within the context of the fiscal year-to-date perspective (see commentary section).

Various timing factors impact this month's withholdings and other individual income tax collections. The below-mentioned performance in withholdings and other individual income tax collections should be interpreted within the perspective of total individual income tax collections and within the fiscal year-to-date trend. These factors are projected to fully normalize over the coming months and month-to-month variations may still occur.

Year-over-year comparisons are impacted by the reduction in the state individual income tax rate (effective January 1, 2023), and payment timing as a result of changes in tax requirements associated with the pass-through entity tax, and more.

Monthly collections related to tax withholdings came in $172.4 million below the monthly estimate and $112.5 million (8.9%) below the prior year actuals. Excluding unusual timing factors, withholdings were 2.1% above prior year actuals.

Other monthly individual income tax collections, net of refunds, came in $129.6 million below the monthly estimate but $72.9 million (29.9%) above prior year actuals.

With important quarterly payment due dates, September, January, April, and June are the most important revenue months for individual income tax.

- Corporate tax collections totaled $200.5 million for April, which is $98.0 million (32.8%) below the monthly estimate and $125.0 million (38.4%) below revenue in April 2023.

Differences relative to monthly estimates are likely as various factors may impact monthly revenue activity including payment and refund timing, late payments, and more. Corporate tax collections should be interpreted within the fiscal year-to-date trend.

With important quarterly payment due dates, September, December, April, and June are the most important revenue months for corporate taxes.

- Riverboat wagering tax collections totaled $35.7 million for April, which is $0.9 million (2.5%) below the monthly estimate and $4.8 million (11.8%) below revenue in April 2023.
- Racino wagering tax collections totaled $12.8 million for April, which is $0.1 million (0.7%) below the monthly estimate and $0.9 million (6.6%) below revenue in April 2023.

Commentary

Year-to-date General Fund revenues totaled $17,498.9 million, which is $23.3 million (0.1%) above the December 2023 revenue forecast and $347.2 million (2.0%) above revenues through the same period in the prior fiscal year.

Year-to-date sales tax collections totaled $8,618.4 million, which is $75.6 million (0.9%) below the December 2023 revenue forecast and $91.4 million (1.0%) below collections through the same period in the prior fiscal year. The negative year-over-year growth is partly affected by the gasoline use tax (which was part of FY 2023 sales tax collections) no longer being distributed to the General Fund beginning in FY 2024.

Sales tax collections excluding gasoline use tax are projected to grow by 1.3% year-over-year for FY 2024 compared to 5.2% in FY 2023, 9.9% in FY 2022, and 13.9% in FY 2021.

Year-to-date individual income tax collections totaled $6,798.0 million, which is $86.9 million (1.3%) above the December 2023 revenue forecast and $345.3 million (5.4%) above collections through the same period in the prior fiscal year. Year-over-year comparisons are impacted by the reduction in the state individual income tax rate (effective January 1, 2023), changes in tax requirements associated with the pass-through entity tax, and more.

Year-to-date corporate tax collections totaled $717.8 million, which is $95.8 million (11.8%) below the December 2023 revenue forecast and $144.3 million (16.7%) below collections through the same period in the prior fiscal year. Year-over-year comparisons are impacted by the repeal of the utility receipts tax and utility services use tax as well as other factors such as timing of payments and refunds, additional changes in law, and more.

Comparisons to estimates and prior-year actuals will be better interpreted over the period of April through June as most revenue activity in the fiscal year occurs during these months.

As previously noted, monthly collections and comparisons relative to monthly estimates are better interpreted looking at the full fiscal year perspective. In addition to the factors mentioned throughout this commentary, various aspects to consider include federal policy actions, temporary and seasonal economic dynamics, interest rates, and more.
